Game Plan:

Leveraging Federal Tax Incentives for Business Childcare Solutions

When employers support childcare initiatives that benefit working parents, it improves talent attraction, retention, and worker satisfaction. It gives smaller businesses the ability to offer competitive benefits, build a deeper talent pool, and reduce costly turnover.

The enhanced employer-provided credit (I.R.C. § 45F credit) incentivizes businesses to provide for their employees through an increased maximum credit amount and additional qualifying expenses. For example, the improved credit allows businesses to contract with third-party services to provide. This opens the door for more businesses to act as innovators and community leaders without directly being a expert or facility operator.

This is an evolving document that will be updated regularly.

NEW GENERAL RULE

$600,000 maximum credit limit. 50% of qualified expenses + 10% of qualified resource and referral expenses. Gross receipts of the business must be less than ~$31M (as of 2026) to be eligible for the enhanced small business rules.

Keep reading for more specific examples of the Big 3 Enhancements to 45F

1

Benefitting Businesses (General Rule)

The enhanced I.R.C. § 45F tax credit will allow businesses to claim a tax credit of 40% of expenses capped at $500,000. Eligible small businesses will be able to claim a tax credit of 50% of expenses capped at $600,000. In order to be eligible, gross receipts of the business must be less than ~$31M (as of 2026).

2

Pooling Resources (Great for Small Business!)

Expanded eligibility, starting in 2026, allows businesses to claim expenses paid to intermediaries and to pool funds to jointly own child care facilities and will continue to be eligible for credit.

3

Introducing Intermediaries

A key change for businesses of all sizes is that fees paid to third party intermediaries are now a qualified child expense. Hiring third parties who are experts in the childcare community benefit distribution, types of childcare, licensing requirements and more.

Understanding the Expiring Employer-Provided Childcare Credit

The Employer-Provided Childcare Credit provides significant benefits for both employers and employees, offering advantages beyond a simple tax credit.

Tax Savings for Employers: The I.R.C. § 45F credit encourages employers to provide working parents with child-care while allowing the business to offset such cost with a tax credit. Tax credits directly offset a businesses tax liability dollar-for-dollar.

Credit Parameters

45FAQS

01 Why would an employer utilize 45F?

Employers know that supporting working parents improves conditions for their workforce. I.R.C. § 45F can incentivize employers to enhance childcare offerings for their employees. This in turn improves recruitment, retention, and productivity of working parents, and enables employers to build a reputation as a family-friendly workplace.

04 How do I apply?

Employers claim the credit on their federal tax return using IRS Form 8882, supported by contracts, invoices, and proof of licensing. Consult your tax advisor before embarking on projects to ensure eligibility and compliance.

07 What is the definition of a “small business”?

Gross receipts of the business must be less than ~$31M (as of 2026) to be eligible for the enhanced small business rules.

02 When do the changes go into effect?

The effective date for the enhanced I.R.C. § 45F credit is January 1, 2026.

05 How much do I need to spend?

The credit equals 40% of qualified expenses up to the $500,000 cap (50% for eligible small businesses). Even modest contributions can yield returns in pooled models.

08 Is there any additional information we need?

Yes, the IRS will be releasing additional guidelines on this enhanced tax credit at a later date.

03 Who can apply for 45F?

An employer with qualified childcare expenses, including eligible small businesses.

06 What are qualified childcare expenditures?

Qualified expenditures include all previously allowed qualified expenditures and any amount paid or incurred under a contract with a qualified childcare facility to provide childcare services to employees of the taxpayer, or under a contract with an intermediate entity that contracts with one or more qualified childcare facilities to provide such childcare services.

Scenario: Tech Corp

Industry: Technology

Employees: 10,000

Action: Builds an on-site childcare center and contracts with a local provider for overflow care. Also offers resource and referral services.

Current 45F (through Dec 31, 2025)

Qualified Expenses:

On-site facility:	$2,000,000
Contract provider:	$100,000
Resource & referral:	$50,000

Total:	$2,150,000
---------------	--------------------

25% facility + 10% referral =	$525,000
--------------------------------------	------------------

Credit:	$150,000
----------------	------------------

Tax Liability: $10,000,000 - $150,000 =	$9,850,000
--	--------------------

Enhanced I.R.C. § 45F Credit (Jan 1, 2026)

Same Expenses:	$2,150,000 total

Enhancement #3: Introducing Intermediaries

NEW CONTRACTING ALLOWED

Businesses may contract with one or more facilities, known as an “intermediary” to provide childcare services. An intermediary can be an organization like a Child Care Resource & Referral Network (CCR&R), a community organization, or a private-sector intermediary. These organizations can play a crucial role in simplifying complex processes for businesses seeking to provide childcare and leverage childcare tax credits.

Traditionally, intermediaries assist with a spectrum of supports, including:

Local Referrals

Connecting businesses with local providers and networks.

Capacity Information

Providing insights on existing providers, community capacity, and availability of services.

Licensing Guidance

Offering information on state licensing requirements for facilities.

Financial Assistance

Guiding businesses on where to find help paying for , including available subsidies and grants.

Specialized Supports

Furnishing information on specialized supports for children with disabilities, facilitating inclusive solutions.

Provide Childcare

An intermediary may play the role of one or more providers who actually provide the care or liaise with the employer and the providers of care.

The Internal Revenue Service is expected to issue regulations and/or guidance to help businesses understand how to implement this new addition to the law.
